Foundry Gallery—July 2–27

Alice-Marie Gravely is a contemporary abstract artist who works in a variety of media including printmaking, oils, acrylics, and watercolor. Her art has been juried into national and international exhibits and is held in many private collections. A Washington, DC newspaper article once stated: “Gravely likes to surprise you with the unexpected, what she did last week is different this week.” Her recent work at the Foundry Gallery takes the viewer on yet another journey on a different creative path. The exhibit includes Alice-Marie’s three-dimensional acrylic works on canvas with multi layers of color and collage.
